Italian students coming to Viejo

This summer a little bit of Italy will be coming to the Mission Viejo area, and American host families are being sought to become a part of this month-long program.

Thirty-five Italian students, ages 14-20, will be living with families in the Saddleback and Capistrano Valleys from June 20 to July 18.

Persons interested in hosting a student should call 494-4328 after 6 p.m. on weekdays or anytime on weekends.

The “homestay” program is being sponsored by the Institute for Cultural Exchange in Sweden. Its goal is to make international education a reality and its belief is that people from different cultures can learn best by living together.

During their month long stay the students will be attending English and American Culture classes at Saddleback College from 9 a.m. to noon and enjoying weekly excursions to major attractions. The remainder of the time they will live and learn about American life by becoming a member of the family.

The host families will be responsible for providing food, bed and transportation to classes. The students will have their own spending money and will be completely insured.

My Recreation Centers prepare for ‘Summer Program Extravaganza’

Hundreds of activities are planned for Mission Viejo Recreation Centers for the months to come. In addition to children’s activities this year, a day camp series for youths six to 12- years-old.

Each session runs Monday through Friday and will take the campers to Laguna Niguel Regional Park for the day’s activities on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and to O’Neil Park for an overnight camping trip and pool lunch Thursday and Friday morning.

Numerous games, excursions and special events are planned by qualified counselors for the camps.

Children’s happenings this summer include a sandbox club, “mix and make it” club, craft day, special parties and trips, especially for them.

Teenagers aren’t forgotten either as beach trips every Wednesday are scheduled besides a Friday night special at Marguerite. Las Vegas night, disco dance, luau, teen talent night and a professional volleyball match.

The centers have also added a new addition to children’s activities this year, a day camp series for youths six to 12-years-old.

Photography contest results told

In the people/monochrome category Douglas Miller was awarded first place, Greg Smith took second and Deane Payne garnered third place. Chris Bunn, Brian Egan and Pete Haynes were given honorable mentions.

In the landscape/color division Tom Isaacs won first, Greg McMillen won second and Joe Hildreth was awarded third place. Dwight Williamson won an honorable mention.

In the general/color category honorable mentions were given to Devin King, Deane Payne and Pete Haynes in the landscape/monochrome category.

In addition to the general contest, photographers also competed in a special category, “Mission Viejo Community.” Winning photos in this category best symbolized community life and aesthetic aspects in Mission Viejo.

Captorings honors in this category were Tom Isaacs, first, Edwin Schneider, second and Dwight Williamson third and honorable mention.

It’s derby time on Seville streets

Seville Homeowners Association is preparing for its seventh annual Grand Prix slated for June 25.

In the past years, more than 7,000 persons have witnessed the adult soap-box derby and cheered more than 100 drivers who design, build and drive their own machines.

Final runs will be held on Saturday, June 25 at 9 a.m. The derby will be held following day also at 9 a.m.

The course will run on the same streets as in the previous years with drivers starting at the top of Chico, heading down Mimoa and finishing on La Vina.

Concessionstands will be set up in the area and will provide hot dogs, coke, beer and ice cream.

Skateboard rolls back prices

Mission Viejo Skateboard is rolling back their prices for its “Super Summer Skater Club” during July and August.

For $12 a month a club member can skate on Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons. The price includes skate rental and admission to the sessions.

Club cards will be available for purchase at the Skateboard opening June 15.

Additionally, summer classes for all levels of skaters will be offered to children beginning the week of June 19. For class times call the Skateboard at 581-4648.

‘Star Wars’ day camp set

Camp Fire Girls of District E will be participating in a “Star Wars” day camp from June 19 to 22 at Laguna Niguel Regional Park.

From 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day the girls will be attending crafts, music, games, hiking and cooking such galactic delights as “Darth Dogs” and “Cheebacca Balls.”

The overnight on June 23 at the Newport Dunes will include swimming, a cookout dinner and breakfast the following morning.

An estimated 200 girls in kindergarten through eighth grade will be attending this accredited camp.

For further information call the Orange County Camp Fire Girl Office at 547-5904.

Reporters delivery

Local youth organizations are being sought to deliver the Mission Viejo Reporter or participate in an anti-litter campaign for fund raising purposes. Organizations will receive 5 cents a copy for delivering the Reporter and $.75 for picking up litter for three hours at designated routes in Mission Viejo.

Interested groups should call the Community Service Program at Mission Viejo Company, 837-6050.

Seventeen's first swim meet coming to MV

Tracy Caulkins, the 15-year-old national swimming champion from Nashvillle, will head the list of top American female swimmers who will compete in Seventeen Magazine's first Swim Meet of Champions, taking place in Mission Viejo, June 23-25.

This is the first national all-female invitational meet in Amateur Athletic Union history.

Last month, Tracy set several American records in the AAU National Short Course Championships, and led an assault on American and world records during the US/USSR Dual Meet in Texas, boosting the United States team to victory over the Soviet Union. In just 10 months during 1977, Tracy broke a total of 14 American swimming records.

In addition to Tracy, other swimmers who are expected to compete include:
- Mission Viejo resident Alice Browne, the distance freestyler who was the only American in 1977 to hold a world record in swimming;
- Linda Jezek, 18, Los Altos, the top U.S. woman backstroker who competed in the 1976 Montreal Olympics;
- Nancy I-fogshead, 16, Jacksonville, Fla., who holds a number of American records for the butterfly;
- Cynthia Woodhead, 14, Riverside, who broke her own American records for the 200 and 600 meter freestyle during the US/USSR Dual Meet.

Seventeen's Swim Meet of Champions will follow the official AAU national three-day meet format, with 15 events, all calibrated in meter distances, including 12 individual events and three relay events.

About 300 American female swimmers who meet the official meet time standards will be competing. The meet high point winner will be presented with a $1,500 scholarship to the school of her choice. Trophies will be awarded to the eight finalists in each event and to the first place winners in consolation finals.

Guy D. Barnicoat, national AAU age group swimming chairman and member of the Olympic Committee, is the meet director. Mark E. Shubert, head coach of the Mission Viejo Nadadores, who twice was named “Coach of the Year” by the American Swim Coaches Association, is the aquatic director for the meet.

Viejo students earn honors in quill contest

Capistrano Unified School District fourth and fifth grade students took home first and second place honors from the Orange County School Board's annual Pen and Quill Contest.

The students competed against 19 other county school districts in Orange County and nine private schools before garnering the awards.

Local members of the winning team were Wendi Wachal of Barcelona Hills Elementary School and Eric Himmel of Viejo School.

During the four-hour test the students were asked to write dictated sentences, read manuscript and write it on cursive line paper, and envelope and on chalkboards. Students were required to write with pencils, ballpoint pens and chalks.

MV Reporter's Henry lauded for editorship

Nadine Henry of Mission Viejo Company has been commended for "overall outstanding achievement" by the Southern California Business Communicators for her work as editor of the "Mission Viejo Reporter."

She received the 1977 Award of Merit for "magazine" from the group, a chapter of the International Association of Business Communicators.

Published by Mission Viejo Company, the "Mission Viejo Reporter" is distributed free of charge to the 13,000 households in the planned community.

Editor of the monthly newsmagazine during 1977, Mrs. Henry recently has been promoted to publications coordinator.
Local students garner Philip Morris scholarships

Mission Viejo High School student Jackson Schoos was awarded a scholarship by Philip Morris Incorporated. The high school senior is the son of Eileen Schoos of Mission Viejo and Charles Schoos of Pico Rivera. Other recipients chosen by the Scholarship Selection Committee were: Kent D. Pelt, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pelt of Laguna Niguel; David J. Saul, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Saul of San Juan Capistrano and Laurie A. Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Van Stevens of Irvine. The four recipients are children of Mission Viejo Company employees. Schoos is active in the music department at Mission Viejo High School. He specializes in voice, guitar and piano. He is a member of the high school choral group and is singing with the Irvine Master Chorale. Schoos is also a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship. He has applied at the University of Southern California's Music School.

Schoos will graduate from Dana Hills High School where he is a member of the Principals Outstanding Citizenship Honor Roll. He enjoys surfing, water skiing and photography. A sample of his photography is on display at Santa Ana County Museum of Art. Pelt plans to attend the University of California at Irvine next fall and major in Pre-Medicine. Pelt will graduate from Dana Hills High School where he is a member of the Principals Outstanding Citizenship Honor Roll. He enjoys surfing, water skiing and photography. A sample of his photography is on display at Santa Ana County Museum of Art. Pelt plans to attend the University of California at Irvine next fall and major in Pre-Medicine. Saul is a member of the San Clemente Tennis Team and also enjoys skiing, hunting, boating and camping. He plans to attend the University of Southern California and major in Pre-Dentistry. Miss Stevens was one of 1,500 students accepted out of a field of 11,000 applicants at Stanford University. She plans to major in History beginning in the fall of '97. Laurie will graduate from University High School where she maintained a straight "A" average all four years. Besides the Philip Morris scholarship, she placed second in the Bank of America competition, and won a Board of Regents scholarship. She is currently taking advanced placement courses at University High which will give her approximately 10 units of college credit.

The students were chosen on the basis of their high school record, rank in class and Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores. Extracurricular activities, school recommendations and the student's own statements were also taken into consideration. In order to be eligible for a scholarship each applicant must be a dependent of a full time employee of Philip Morris Incorporated or any of its operating companies and a high school senior who plans to enroll at an accredited college or vocational/technical school for the following academic year.

The following is the third in a series of six articles on Orange County's water picture by Clem M. McColloch, president of the Board of Directors of the Municipal Water District of Orange County.

Two hundred years of western civilization have brought California to the nation's peak in population and agriculture and have given the state of California an urgent need to provide a growing supply of fresh water for the people, the crops, and the industries within its borders. Orange County has been the leader in industrial and population growth.

Seventy per cent of the State's water supply is found north of the San Francisco Bay area; while 70 per cent of the population is south of the Bay area. Thus, the State Water Project was developed to distribute the surplus water that was being lost to the sea to the area of need: the San Joaquin Valley agricultural area and south of the Tehachapi mountains for the heavily populated areas of Southern California.

The immensity of the Project makes it hard to visualize, with over 750 miles of pipelines and canals, many dams and pumping plants, all at a cost of $2.3 billion. Energy required to pump this water is over 13.5 billion kilowatts of electricity enough to meet the needs of a city of 1.5 million. One of the dams, Orovville, is the tallest and largest earth dam in the nation. One of the pumping plants, A. D. Edmonston, is the largest in the world.

Southern California presently needs to import 1.2 million acre-feet of water a year. An acre-foot is a volume of water which would cover a football field to a depth of one foot (325,900 gallons), enough to supply a family of five for one year.

The existing Colorado River supply of one million acre-feet of water is less than is needed for Southern California at this time, and a Supreme Court decision to take effect in the mid-1980's will cut our Colorado supply in half. This cut, along with estimated future needs, shows that the State Water Project must supplement the Colorado supply by some 2.2 million acre-feet a year.

All of the above shows how important the State Water Project is to Southern California and particularly to Orange County where in some areas such as Saddleback Valley, we depend 100 per cent on imported water to meet our needs.

Mission Viejo resident named to OC cultural center's board

Mission Viejo resident Ron Cook has been named to the board of directors of the Orange County Music Center, Inc., it was announced.

The corporate director of public relations and advertising at California Computer Products, Inc., (CalComp), Cook joins 19 other members of the Music Center board in guiding/development of the $32 million cultural center which is slated for completion in the early 1980's. Among his other community activities, he is a member of the board of trustees for Anaheim Memorial Hospital and the public relations advisory committee of Orange County United Way, Inc.

He is a former district manager for Junior Achievement of Orange County and director of public relations for the Orange County 1985 Program, sponsored by the National Alliance of Businessmen.

Cook and his wife Kathy, have three children.
