Float workers needed

Local high school students are needed to flower Mission Viejo's float entry at the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade. This year's entry, "Versailles," depicts five court figures, portrayed by five local high school homecoming queens who dance in a pavilion covered by translucent simulations of a leaded stained glass roof. Figures that grace the supporting columns are replicas of those found in the famous "Hail of Mirrors."

The floothing and judging both take place at Fiesta Floats in Temple City. Transportation will be provided throughout the floothing and judging process.

"It really gives you a feeling of community pride when you watch Mission Viejo's float pass down Colorado Boulevard, and know that you helped flower it," Todd Celestin, a member of last year's floothing team, said.

"It's especially great when we win sweepstakes," Paul Houston, another float worker said.

Mission Viejo entries have won the prestigious Sweepstakes award three out of the last five years. And two of the awards were back-to-back — which has never been done before in the history of the Rose Parade.

Flowering begins Dec. 26 and runs through Dec. 30. Official Mission Viejo Rose Parade jackets will be provided to all who work on the float for the five-day period.

Float flowering is held in two shifts daily. The following is the flowering and bus schedule.

Daily — Dec. 26-30; Shift 1 — 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Bus departs Mission Viejo High School at 6:30 a.m. and returns at approximately 5:30 p.m.

Shift 2 — Dec. 26-30 3:30 to 10:30 p.m. Bus departs Mission Viejo High School at 2 p.m. and returns at approximately midnight.

Transportation will be provided the morning of Dec. 31 for the judging and also Jan. 1 to the parade if float workers are planning to attend.

For further information contact the activities director at your local high school.

MV Reporter goes quarterly

Beginning in 1982, the Mission Viejo Reporter will be published four times a year instead of the present monthly schedule.

"Due to the growth of Mission Viejo and coverage by local newspapers, it was decided the Reporter could better serve the community as a quarterly publication," Gerry Ognibene, Mission Viejo Company's vice president of Community Service Operations, said.

Ognibene said the 1982 Reporter will be published in March, June, September and December. "We are planning to have it serve as a review, preview publication that will emphasize those events and items which are an important part of life in Mission Viejo."

"Our goal is to record the activities, community participation and lifestyles that are the heart of Mission Viejo," he said.

The Reporter was first published in February of 1966. Since that time 180 issues have been published and delivered to every home in Mission Viejo.

At the time it was established, there was virtually no newspaper coverage of the infant community.

"Since that time Mission Viejo has grown, matured and now has a very clear sense of community," Ognibene said.

WINNERS ALL — (from left) The five winners whose times won them trips to the Boston Marathon are (overall female winner) Robin Dubach; (overall male winner) George Mason; wheelchair winner Rick Hansen; female Mission Viejo resident winner Debbie Wilkinson and male Mission Viejo resident winner Jon Cook.

REFRESHMENT EN ROUTE — A runner replenishes dwindling body fluids from one of the three aid stations along the course.

WARMUP ON WHEELS — Wheelchair entrants limber up as they prepare to compete in their own division for the first time in the race.

CHRISTMAS WISHES ENCLOSED — Heather Barnes has expressed all her yuletide wishes in a letter to Santa Claus that will be sent special delivery to the North Pole by the Mission Viejo Recreation Centers. Recreation center members 12-and-under are invited to drop off their Christmas letters from Dec. 1-15 at special mailboxes located at all rec centers. Old St. Nick himself will be writing a special reply to each child that sends a letter.

Celebrate ‘Five Nights’ in MV

The 15th annual Five Nights of Christmas, sponsored by the Mission Viejo Activities Committee, will get underway when Santa Claus arrives in Mission Viejo on Sunday, Nov. 29.

Santa is expected to arrive in a stagecoach at approximately 6:30 p.m. in front of First Interstate Bank at La Paz and Chrisanta. The Linda Vista Elementary School choir, under the direction of Kevin Birkbeck, will provide entertainment before Santa’s arrival.

The event will be heralded by a mini-fireworks display and the lighting of the community’s 35-foot Christmas tree.

Professional "tunesmith" Bill Baker will sing yuletide carols and keep close contact with Santa as he makes his journey from the North Pole.

Santa’s workshop, on the corner of La Paz and Chrisanta, will open on Dec. 6. This year, ‘Mrs. Claus will also be greeting the children with Santa. Santa’s hours will be from 6 to 8 p.m. on Dec. 6, 8, 13 and 2 to 4 p.m. Dec. 19.

Highlighting the second night will be the ninth annual Holiday Home Tour. Sponsored by the Mission Viejo Beautiful Committee, six homes will be on the tour from 3 to 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 6.

A five Nativity scene will be set up and a stagecoach will arrive to kick off the annual Five Nights of Christmas.

The fourth annual Lake Mission Viejo boat parade marks the third night of Christmas on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 12 and 13, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Boats can be viewed from Alicia Parkway at the south end of the lake or from O’Neill Road at the north end.

Three 30-minute performances of the biblical story of the first Christmas will be staged at 6, 6:45 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 6. The fourth annual Lake Mission Viejo boat parade marks the third night of Christmas on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 12 and 13, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Boats can be viewed from Alicia Parkway at the south end of the lake or from O’Neill Road at the north end.

A five Nativity scene will be set up and a stagecoach will arrive to kick off the annual Five Nights of Christmas.

The Nativity scene highlights the fourth night. The Nativity scene will be held at 6:45 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 20 at the mini-park on Chrisanta, adjacent to La Paz Road.

Coffee and hot chocolate will be served, compliments of the activities committee.

The Five Nights of Christmas program culminates on Christmas Eve when Mission Viejo residents repeat the Spanish tradition of the lighting of luminarias in their front yards. The practice is symbolic of the fires that lit the way for shepherds as they journeyed to Bethlehem. Luminarias (candles placed inside sand-filled paper bags) are available at the Mission Viejo Information booth, as well as other merchants.

Barbara Orlando is general chairman of the Five Nights Program and is being assisted by: Mark Wilczynski, chairman, and Val Celestin, assistant chairman, Nativity scene; John Ben, Rich Raimann, Joe DeCamp, Santa’s arrival, co-chairmen; Selda Walsh, Luminaria chairman; Kathy Yergin, boat parade chairman and Letty Scheen, home tour chairman.

Also assisting with Five Nights arrangements are: Joe Orlando, Lynn and Torin Ferrai, Barbara and Jim Shanton, Peter and Kathy Case, Fred and Annabelle McGuire, Fred Piosa, Sal Becerril, Bob Petten-gill, Bob Hartwig, Dave Celestin, Mary Lou Teske, Nancy and Ed Calahan, Kathy Houldin, Nancy McGill, Jean Anthony and Marie Kamnikar.

In addition to the five nights, a children’s fantasyland and Menorah Candle, symbolic of the Jewish celebration, Hanukkah, will be on display at the Alicia and Margarette Parkways and La Paz and Chrisanta Drive Intersections.

Residents open doors for tour

This year, six community families will play a big part in the Mission Viejo Activities Committee sponsored Five Nights of Christmas Program.

On the second of the five nights, residents of the six homes will “deck their halls” with boughs of holiday hospitality for the ninth annual Mission Viejo Beautiful Committee Holiday Home Tour from 3 to 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 6. During the tour, the committee will host a holiday house where refreshments will be served.

First on the tour is the home of Tim and Kathy Lane where mono-chromatic colors of beiges and browns harmonize in this modernly designed home.

The home of Victor and Diane Lewis is second on the tour. It contains a unique blend of traditional and modern furnishings incorporating colors of navy blue, rust, beige and white throughout their home.

Sportscaster whips MS, forges career

Joe DeMarco

Joe DeMarco’s vision began to dim. He suffered excruciating headaches and the doctors couldn’t help. Tantalizingly, his vision returned; then it faded again, and again the headaches. Then, his sight returned. Next, he became really ill; he couldn’t retain food and lost 40 pounds in two months. By fall of that year DeMarco’s toes mysteriously began to lose feeling. Numbness began creeping up his legs, which became stiff. Ills progressed; his fingers, then hands and finally arms lost their feeling and their power of movement. A short time later, he was quadriplegic.

The doctors now had a good idea what had caused his blindness: Multiple Sclerosis (MS), a strange disease whose origin remains obscure and for which there’s no accepted treatment. Usually, it strikes healthy young adults, not teenagers. It destroys nerve con-

Sports director for Mission Viejo’s KSBR radio station, DeMarco wasn’t able to trade up in his glamorous career for another. When he was 15, he wanted to pitch for the Dodgers. A Colt League fireballer, he seemed well on the way to realizing his ambition. He could soon be attending Banning High School in Wilmuton, which had produced many championship teams and major league players.

On his 16th birthday in 1964, DeMarco’s vision began to dim. He suffered excruciating headaches and the doctors couldn’t help. Tantalizingly, his vision returned; then it faded again, and again the headaches. Then, his sight returned. Next, he became really ill; he couldn’t retain food and lost 40 pounds in two months. By fall of that year DeMarco’s toes mysteriously began to lose feeling. Numbness began creeping up his legs, which became stiff. Ills progressed; his fingers, then hands and finally arms lost their feeling and their power of movement. A short time later, he was quadriplegic.

The doctors now had a good idea what had caused his blindness: Multiple Sclerosis (MS), a strange disease whose origin remains obscure and for which there’s no accepted treatment. Usually, it strikes healthy young adults, not teenagers. It destroys nerve connecteds, progressively paralyzing its victims. Still, doctors at Rancho Los Amigos Hospital in Downey wanted to try a new treatment on Joe — massive injections of steroids. Joe and his family agreed to try. The steroids caused agonizing muscle cramps, but they worked. Having been wheeled into the hospital, he walked out six months later, as good as new. Cruelly, the disease struck again, blinding him, but then steroids once more restored his sight. A year later, while the Dodgers were training for the 1966 season, Joe contracted the flu, which in turn triggered another MS attack. This time it damaged the myelin that sheathes the optic nerve. And, this time, he didn’t regain his lost sight.

Worse, the successive MS attacks had impaired feeling in his fingers, tipsy enough that he’s now unable to use a braille reader. Together a new life didn’t come easily. Recalling now that grim stretch, Joe is candid. “You feel terribly bitter . . . there’s no denying it. The pain is real, and so is the loss. You feel it so unfair, being singled out like that. ‘I’m a lot of handicapped people don’t get much beyond that. A handicap can become a crutch. ‘Interviewing a Rod Carew or a Bobby Orr — who went to Banning High School—gives me goose bumps.’ He laughs.

Living in Mission Viejo, too, has made his job a lot easier. “This area is literally flooded with world-class athletes. Charlie White, the USC Heisman trophy winner who now plays for the Browns, lives in Mission Viejo. So does Larry Sherry of the Angels and Frank Tanana of the Red Sox. Then, there’re the Nadadores divers and swimmers. With the Rams and the Angels in Anaheim, I’ve found it easy getting interviews, and I’ve even become friends with some, like Rod Carew. ‘I wouldn’t have had these opportunities if we’d remained in Wilmington,’ DeMarco said. ‘Besides getting to work at KSBR, I’ve gotten a lot of help from people in the community. ‘To stay on top of sports, Joe uses readers provided by the State Department of Rehabilitation and KSBR furnishes a secretary to help him in preparing his broadcasts. Besides his KSBR work and despite his handicap, DeMarco keeps in shape with a remarkable fitness program. With MS, he says, ‘You’ve got to burn it out of your system. I have enough vision to play basketball one-on-one.’

In addition, he lifts weights in his own weight room. He balances his anaerobic training with extensive running. In addition to his aerobic training that’s vital in a serious fitness program.

He does most of his running on Mission Viejo High School’s track, where he tries to beat his own path down and then follow it. So, that’s where DeMarco runs — without a white cane — and definitely not wasting any time.

Santa makes house calls

The Mission Viejo Recreation Centers just received a letter from Santa Claus at the North Pole, saying that he would be available to make house calls to community residents Dec. 12-23.

Mission Viejo Recreation Center members may schedule a personal visit with Santa and his helper at the place of their choice by calling 931-6872 ext. 694, beginning Dec. 3. Non-members may reserve Santa beginning Dec. 7. Santa’s fee is $16 for 15 minutes or $24 for one half-hour.

Decorate with lights

The Mission Viejo Beautiful Committee is sponsoring its ninth annual Christmas Lighting Contest in keeping with the community’s holiday spirit. Preliminary judging will be held Dec. 16 through 18 and final judging will take place on Dec. 20. This year, entries will be eligible for one of three categories: businesses, civic and homes. No entry forms are necessary as all decorated businesses, buildings or homes will automatically be judged. Four different awards will be given (within the three categories) for best lighting, best theme, best music and best humorous animation. In addition, honorable mentions will be made and a special award will be given to the best street.

MORE SYRUP PLEASE! — Santa Claus lends a helping hand to Chelsea Barnes (left) while Lance Souza prepares to dig into a stack of pancakes for the 13th annual Children’s Christmas Party, sponsored by the recreation centers. “Breakfast with Santa,” to be held at Montanoso, is open to all recreation center members 11-and-under and their parents. Children five-and-under must be accompanied by an adult. The party will be held Saturday, Dec. 19 from 9-11 a.m. Cost is $2.50 per person. Reservations may be made through Dec. 16 by calling 951-MVRC, ext. 237.

Once again the Mission Viejo Activities Committee has planned a series of thoroughly enjoyable and heart warming events for young and old alike during this year’s holiday season. The 15th annual Five Nights of Christmas, consisting of a series of events on the five Sundays before Christmas, will give you that warm and wonderful feeling about the spirit of Christmas...as it has done the previous 14 years. Residents are also reminded to watch on television the community’s entry, “Versailles,” in the annual Tournament of Roses Parade. For additional information regarding the community’s Christmas activities see the article in this month's Reporter and refer to the calendar located below.
