Surin' begorra it's time agin for wearin' o' the green... Aye, the big parade will agin be amarchin' through Saturday, March 15.

All the Irish folk and those with just a wee bit o' Irish in 'em on the Activities Committee have been working since January preparing for this annual event.

Scheduled to begin at 2 p.m., bands, floats, drill teams and marching units will leave from Mission Viejo High School to cover a one and four-fifths mile route. The parade will proceed south on Chrisanta to Estanciero where it will go to Marguerite before turning south to Oso Parkway and Montanoso where it will disband.

All schools and youth groups, community clubs, bands, drill teams, businesses, informal groups and individuals have been invited to enter the parade.

The St. Paddy's Parade began five years ago when Mission Viejo residents Tom Mitchell and Lee Ramsay made a $10 bet as to whether a parade was possible or not. It was! The first parade had 50 entries, and was highlighted by the helicopter arrival of a genuine blarney stone imported from Ireland. Since then the parade has grown to approximately 100 entries with over 10,000 spectators lining the route.

"What has made this parade so successful and set it apart from others is that anyone can participate," commented Dr. Ted Witt, parade co-chairman.

"This year a special judging of high school bands and marching units by the Southern California School Band and Orchestra Assn. will be a new addition to our parade," said Dr. Witt. "The first 12 bands to enter will be a part of the competition."

"Participation awards will also be presented to drill teams, color guards, military marching units, and school sponsored entries," added Dr. Witt.

"Excellent," "beautiful," and "majestic" are just some of the adjectives which judges used to describe all 112 entries in the Mission Viejo Reporter Photo Contest.

The best color photograph taken of snow covered Saddleback was submitted by Paul McIntire who received $75; judges commented that the winning entry had "excellent composition and content, framing Saddleback with Mission Viejo in the foreground. The very realistic color hues reflect the beauty of the early morning snow-draped mountains."

Lawrence J. Barr, who said he has been a resident of Mission Viejo for eight months and "loves it," received the second place award of $50, for what judges felt was a good, clear photograph of the mountain with Casta del Sol's recreation center in the foreground. Using a telephoto lens, Barr was able to capture "a beautiful scene."

"A truly captivating shot of snow capped Saddleback," led judges to choose the entry submitted by Terry Cockett, as a third place winner. "Its excellent framing shows the use of imagination and creativity." He received $25.

Myles R. Dresslove was awarded an honorable mention and $10 for his photo which shows the native chapparal and rolling plains with Saddleback in the background. It deserved an award for its "spectacular display of beauty," judges agreed.

Casta del Sol Golf Course

...it's only a putt away

It's only a putt away... Mission Viejo's new Casta del Sol Public Executive Golf Course is available daily to players and takes just three hours to play, states Al Westbrook, Casta del Sol's golf pro.

The recently opened course is as good as any in Southern California, commented Westbrook. "The mountain terrain adds interest but doesn't make it difficult to walk."

"The executive course is shorter and doesn't take as long to play as a regular course, adding to its popularity for businessmen and golf enthusiasts who don't have all day to play."

Although shorter, the course has 12, par 3 holes, and 6, par 4 holes for a total par 60. It features three lakes with excellent drainage, sand traps, boulders and all the normal hazards.

The Casta del Sol golf center also offers a pro shop, snack shop, putting green, and will soon have a permanent clubhouse.
Beer can collecting becomes sophisticated hobby

“Ninety-nine bottles of beer on the wall...”

“Ninety-nine bottles of beer on the wall...”

For the past two and one-half years, Mike has been a Beer Can Collector of America, one of 4,400 members across the United States.

Most of the cans Mike collected during his cross-country move from Cleveland, where he formerly resided, to Mission Viejo. The others he has received from breweries, and by exchanging cans with other collectors.

What is so remarkable about Mike's hobby is that he has no two cans that are alike. Although some may look identical, Mike and his collector associates know the difference—no matter how minute.

Sometimes that difference is just the name of a city, indicating that the brewery has opened a new plant.

However, most of the differences between cans are quite distinctive, Mike explained. For example, Iron City Beer, made in Pittsburgh, frequently changes its labels...from baseball themes like "Pour it on Pirates" to football's "Pour it on Steelers" and even to promoting Christmas and Pittsburgh tourist attractions.

One of the most distinctive displays on his wall is an assortment of cans from Scotland, each featuring a bikini clad model in a provocative pose.

Although the lassies are certainly attractive, Mike favors his collection of "cone tops", which are cans produced from 1935 to 1950. These first beer cans, instead of being flat on the top like today's, had cone-shaped tops with a cap. Mike explained that after being discontinued for the flat-top cans, the brewery had to furnish illustrated directions on how to open the cans.

Mike has even gotten some historical insights through his beer can collecting. During World War II, he found that Kingsbury Beer designed a can that wouldn't reflect the sunlight so that the soldiers in the war zone would still be able to enjoy a drink without inadvertently pin-pointing their position for the enemy.

Beer cans have come a long way since first manufactured on January 24, 1935. Now, it is not only popular to see how much beer one can consume, but to see how many cans one can collect. And, even the collecting for some people like Mike has become very sophisticated.

Varied cuisine crafts on sale at DH swap meet

An international selection of cuisine including Italian, Mexican, and the All-American hot dog will be featured during the coming swap meet, March 2, at Dana Hills High School. In addition to the specialty menu items, a wide range of used and craft items will be on sale.

Sponsored by the Parent-Teacher-Student Assn., the event will be held from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. in the school parking lot. Admission will be 25 cents per person, with proceeds benefiting the PTSA general fund.

Schools to recognize National Music Day

The first national Music in Our Schools Day — April 16 — has been set aside to recognize the millions of young people who make music, listen to music and learn about music through education in the schools. The non-music school districts will be observed Thursday, March 13.

Saddleback Valley Unified School District, which will recognize this national day, has expanded its participation to cover the entire week of March 10 through March 14, according to Joanne Harris, the district's music director.

"Many special programs at the individual schools have been organized, as well as an "open house" for music classes," she said. Highlighting the week's events will be an all-district honor concert, featuring the elementary honor chorus and the junior high school orchestra. The concert will be held March 18, at El Toro High School at 7:30 p.m.

Students at Montevideo Elementary School will present "Handel and Gretel" at 7:30 p.m., March 13. Additionally, there will be six to eight other concerts during the week throughout district schools.

"In the fourth through twelfth grades, there are 3,300 performing music students participating in school music programs," said Ms. Harris. "These students are actively involved in playing instruments or singing in choral groups."

"Also, there are many students who do not perform, as well as many students in the primary grades, who spend 30 minutes each week in 'music appreciation through doing' classes," she added. "These types of activities are the key to our successful music program."
Mission Viejo residents, who subscribe to Mission Viejo Cable Co., can now enjoy programming on KOCE-TV, Channel 50, Orange County Public Television. KOCE appears as Channel 8 on the cable.

Channel 50 marked the regular programming schedule of the Mission Viejo system Friday, January 10. This action opened the full schedule of Channel 50 programming, from noon to 10 p.m., seven days a week, to the 2800 Mission Viejo subscribers, according to Curtis Speck, general manager of the cable company, and William A. Furniss, vice president and general manager of KOCE-TV.

"As a resident of Mission Viejo, I am delighted to have the Mission Viejo Cable system included in the Channel 50 family," said Furniss. "This is a vibrant community and its activities will be the subject of much programming on Channel 50 in the future as it has in the past.

"Channel 50's televised college-credit courses are among the station's primary attractions," according to Speck. "We expect many of our viewers to take advantage of this opportunity to attend college classes in their own living rooms."

Channel 50 also carries the full Public Broadcasting Service schedule of shows, including great film, drama cultural and community affairs. "Masterpiece Theatre" and the classic "Upstairs, Downstairs" highlight the PBS schedule.

A UHF Public Television station, KOCE-TV is licensed to the Coast Community College District, which operates both Orange Coast College and Golden West College campuses. It began operations in November, 1972.
Rec Center offers tots ‘tummy surf’ training

Can you move like an inchworm, “tummy surf”, or act like a bear?

Tots and toddlers from six weeks to six years can learn how to relate with other children and the enjoyment of each other’s companionship.

“Another important function,” she added, “will be learning to relate with other children and the enjoyment of each other’s companionship.”

The program includes a variety of physical and imaginative activities for each different age level. The children, depending upon their age, will participate in such activities as being an “inchworm,” “tummy surf,” and crawling and walking like bears. Older children, from three to five, will have the opportunity to act like seals and learn to walk on a balance beam in a poised position.

Developed three years ago by Child Development Corp., the program has been available in Mission Viejo since June, 1974. Registration for the upcoming series can be made at Montanoso. The cost is $10. The classes will meet on Mondays at 10 a.m. for ages six weeks to one year; 10 a.m. for 12 to 24 months; 11 a.m. for 25 to 36 months; and 12 p.m. for 3, 4, and 5 year-olds.

New MV ski club planning season of trips, speakers

Mission Viejo’s newly-formed ski club is off and running with plans for a season of ski trips and special speakers, announced George Lyons, Mission Viejo’s director of special activities, who is spearheading the group.

Lyons said members are looking forward to the club’s first family weekend ski trip planned March 21-23 at Mammoth. The trip will include the bus and lodging at Mammoth Estates Condominium. Lift tickets and meals are separate.

The group hosted the community’s first “Ski Night” on Feb. 19 at Montanoso Recreation Center. Professional skier Rudd Pyles from the Benson and Hedges Ski Classic offered ski tips and answered questions from the audience before competing in the B and H Ski Classic, Feb. 22-23, where he took second in the slalom and third in the giant slalom.

Membership in the ski club is open to recreation center members age 21 and over. Additional information may be obtained from Lyons at 837-4981.

Like the message in a corked bottle found several years after it was “sent,” a 6½ year-old contest entry that had been tied to a balloon has been returned to Mission Viejo.

Adding an ironic twist to the “air mail tale,” the message was found by an employee of the firm that released the balloon.

Don Hess, a Mission Viejo resident and assistant manager of customer service for Mission Viejo Co. found the card tied to a balloon in the brush while on a hunting trip in the Santa Ana mountains near Murietta Hot Springs in adjoining Riverside County.

Although Hess returned the card and balloon almost 6½ years after the contest ended on August 17, 1968, Mission Viejo Company officials decided to present a special “Neither Rain, Nor Sleet, Nor Snow Award” to Hess.

Both he and the child whose name was on the card, Vickie Muth, were presented $25 government bonds by Mission Viejo’s Director of Recreation, Jerry Curran. It was noted that Vickie had grown into a young lady while waiting for her entry to be returned.

A TALE FROM THE YELLOW BRICK ROAD — Like story book tales of yesteryear that have a happy ending, so does a story that began and ended in Mission Viejo — all because of a balloon. Miss Vickie Muth (center), and Don Hess (right), follow the yellow brick road showing $25 bonds which were presented to them by Jerry Curran (left) Mission Viejo’s director of recreation.

Equestrian Center hosts Nadadores Booster Club afloat with meet plans

With the first annual Mission Viejo Invitational Swim Meet set for August 1 through 3, the 175-member Nadadores Booster Club is already hard at work.

This major swimming event, formerly known as the Los Angeles Invitational, was held for 14 years at the Coliseum before it was relocated to Mission Viejo two years ago.

The swimmers from all over the world will attend the meet, sponsored jointly by the Booster Club and the Southern Pacific Association Amateur Athletic Union.

In preparation for the event, the Boosters soon will publish a booklet listing accommodations, rules and general information about the three-day meet, stated Bob Reinicke, president of the organization. "The members also will be arranging for officials, timers, and judges.

"Additionally, we will be responsible for finding 'basket boys' and 'basket girls' who will hold the swimmers' clothing and see that winning swimmers get to the awards area at the right time," added Reinicke.

"This is quite an honor for the younger swimmers, who will dress in white—as do the officials."

Working with Reinicke are the club's three vice-presidents: Guy Bamicco, Art Hugar, and Bob Phillips. Club secretaries are Nancy Anderson and Marsha Ray.

Other officials include Sid Phillips, publicity; Carolyn McCafferty and Jane Patten, records; Tom Stout, historian; Jerry Amen, equipment; and Bob Murdock, ways and means. Members-at-large are Reb Goodell, Janice Lee, and Dick Mench. Started in 1968 to support the newly formed Nadadores Swim Team, the club is dedicated to providing the best possible parental support for its coaches and swimmers.

The relocation of the Los Angeles Invitational exemplifies the group's involvement and interest in the growth of the Nadadores. According to Reinicke, the Boosters were instrumental in bringing the LAI to Mission Viejo, and are working hard to assure the continued success of this meet, one of the most prestigious in the nation.

Soccer season bumps to a close

With the kicks and bumps of a long, hard season nearing the end, 1,500 youthful soccer enthusiasts will be honored at the American Youth Soccer Organization's Annual Awards Day, Sunday, March 23 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Mission Viejo High School stadium.

"The awards day is designed to honor the boys and girls who participated in American Youth Soccer Organization (AYSO) games this season from Mission Viejo and the surrounding communities of El Toro, Lake Forest, Laguna Hills, Laguna Beach, Laguna Niguel, San Juan Capistrano, and San Clemente," stated Ken Allan, AYSO member.

"This is the one time during the year when these players are recognized for their hard work and dedication to the sport of soccer," said Allen. "Certificates, trophies and team pictures will be presented."

Horse show

Clods of dirt flew and a few falls were noted when nearly 400 young equestrians competed in Western and English riding events during the second annual Junior Horse Show at the Equine Center, Saturday and Sunday, February 1 and 2.

One of the first shows of its kind on the Pacific Coast slated for this year, top junior riders and their trainers came from all over Southern California to participate in hunter, jumper, and stock home events.

The riders, competing in classes according to the type of events, were judged not only on their riding, but also on their ability to work with their horses. Riders and horses alike were equipped in the proper style. Western riders wore Western attire including some with chaps, while those competing in English events wore the formal dark coats, white cravats, and jodhpurs.

"The excitement and thrill of competing for any of these young riders the opportunity to really appreciate what they are learning," explained Andy Hunter, manager of the Equestrian Center.

Mission Viejo riders competing in the show captured 14 awards during the 39 events.

In Saturday's English competition, spectators watched Christi Gilleran, riding Comman, and Katie Buescher on Pepper Minty Patty win second and third respectively for the Working Hunters Under Saddle class for 11 years and under. Chrusi and Katie also won third and fourth places, respectively, in Hunter Seat Equitation and in Pleasure Seat, Hunter Type.

Sunday's Western riding drew more Mission Viejo riders and winners. Lisa Miller on Harpers Jay Lady captured a first in Trail Horse, 14 to 17 years, and a fourth in Western Pleasure Horse Championship while riding Cimarron George. Also winning were Leslie Heart, riding Dice, who received a fourth in Trail Horse, 14 to 17 years, and a fifth in Stock Seat Equitation, Novice 15 to 17, and Chissie Gilleran, riding Dutchess, who won a fifth in Stock Seat Equitation, 11 and under.

In Western Pleasure Horses events, Sherry Lafferty on Patty won a fifth in both the 11 and under class and the Novice, 14 and under class; while Scott Pollock, riding Honey Com captured a fourth also in the Novice, 14 and under class.

Sure winner — Chrissi Gilleran of Mission Viejo demonstrated how practice pays by capturing four awards including one second, two thirds and one fifth during the show which featured English riding on Saturday and Western events on Sunday. Mission Viejo Equestrian Center hosted the two-day competition.

Court Royalty — Billie Jean King, queen of the courts, shows her form while practicing on the Marguerite Recreation Center courts.

Billie Jean highlights Mini Slims tournament

America's best known women's tennis player, Billie Jean King, appearing unexpectedly, was the highlight of the Mission Viejo Mini Slims Mini-Tour tournament, February 4 through 9, at Marguerite Recreation Center.

"Billie Jean's appearance not only drew oohs and ahhs from the spectators, but sent some of the players scurrying for the dressing rooms," stated Norm Williams, tournament director. He added that she is "very strict" about dress and the appearance of the girls on the circuit. "They all respect her and the rules she has tried to create."

The women's tournament, a part of the 1975 Winter Ten- nis Omnival which featured both women's and local men's pro singles and mixed pro doubles, offered prizes totaling $8,500, and drew professional women players from across the United States, as well as from around the world. Hundreds of spectators followed the exciting competition with more than 200 attending Sunday, even in the rain.

Although the finals were cancelled due to the unexpected stormy weather, John Andrews won the men's singles title by defeating Gene Main, who had already upset Tom Leonard going into the finals. One of the most exciting men's matches of the week was when Andrews beat Jerry Van Linge in the semi-finals.

The biggest upset of the tournament, however, came when Paulina Peisachov of Israel over-powered Kris Kenmaw Shaw for a place in the finals. Marita Rendoud had an easy match and cruised to the finals, where she would have played Peisachov if the meet had not been rained out.

Both Rendoud and Peisachov earned a place in the Virginia Slims major tournament circuit by winning in Mission Viejo.
Barcelona couple receive steer

The Thomas Perrys don’t have a beef with Mission Viejo—they do have a lot of beef. As the 1,000th buyers at Barcelona Homes, the Perrys were presented a 1,000 lb. steer. “In honoring the family, it was Mission Viejo’s decision that one of the most practical gifts, in light of today’s rising food costs, would be a steer,” stated Grant Sullivan, general sales manager for Mission Viejo Co.

MV High School Swap

“Such a deal.”

Those words will be a familiar sound Saturday, March 8 when Mission Viejo High School sponsors a swap meet, this year’s annual fund-raising event.

The meet, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., will be held at the high school’s football stadium. Admission will be 25 cents, with children under five free.

An assortment of refreshments along with bargains for every member of the family will be on sale. The meet is open to all Mission Viejo residents and their friends. Proceeds will benefit campus beautification and the school budget.

Further information may be obtained from Donald Martin, 837-9262.

BEEF ON THE HOOF

An honest-to-goodness steer was delivered to the doorstep of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Perry, the 1,000th buyers at Barcelona Homes. Along with the steer the Perrys received a hand-carved lamp engraved with their names. On hand for the unusual presentation were (from left) Thomas and Nikki Perry, Grant Sullivan, general sales manager of the Mission Viejo Co. and Bob Freeman, project manager.

After receiving the steer, Mr. Perry remarked, “You know, I really don’t believe it. I fully expected one of my friends to be playing a practical joke. Just how often does someone call to tell you that you are getting a 1,000 lb. steer?”

Taking into consideration that the Perry’s do not have a place to keep the steer, arrangements were made with a Mission Viejo meat market to dress another steer to their liking, added Sullivan.

The family also was presented with a more permanent momento, a lamp designed by artist Tom Grogg of Corona del Mar. Styled after a Mission bell, the hand-carved wooden lamp is a miniature replica of Mission Viejo’s exclusive street lamps. Former residents of Whittier, the Perrys purchased a Buena Vista street lamp.

THANK YOU

A trophy and plaque with four pictures of the Mission Viejo High School band and support units has been presented to the Mission Viejo Co. as a thank you for funds loaned to help costumize the units which accompany the band. Philip J. Reilly (left), president of the Mission Viejo Co., accepted the trophy presented by Bruce Jenkins, Diablos Music Boosters president; Terry Newman, band director, and Don Ames, principal (from left).
