Challenge of the Sexes calls full roster of champion athletes to Mission Viejo for 13 sports events

The Challenge of the Sexes

The tennis event took place on October 25th at Marguerits Recreation Center. Because the November Reporter was being printed on that date, results of the event could not be carried in this issue. Karen Borg vs. Doug Sanders and Jan Blalock vs. Hale Irwin, golf; Keena Rothhammer vs. Schollander, swimming; Karen Logan vs. West, basketball; Judy Soutar vs. Dave Davis and Paula Sperber vs. Carmen Salerno, bowling; King vs. Ken Sitzberger, diving; Linda Matheny vs. Makoto Sakamoto, gymnastics; Sheila Bussey vs. Larry Mahan, rodeo; In-Sook Na vs. Danny Seemiller, table tennis; Jean Balukas vs. Willie Mosconi, pool billiards, and Wyomia Tyus vs. Bob Seagren, obstacle course. Competitors in the skydiving event will be decided in a U.S. National competition.

The essence of "The Challenge of the Sexes" is equal competition between males and females. In several sports, in order to insure this, a handicap has been added. In swimming, for example, Doris Schollander will swim the 400 meter individual medley, while Keena Rothhammer, his adversary, swims a straight 400 meter freestyle. In a sport where men have historically recorded faster times, the slight change in the rules for "The Challenge of the Sexes" will bring the competitors very close on paper.

Some of the other rule adjustments are being tested before the actual competition. Tennis was one sport where final decision was pending. The women golfers, Baugh and Blalock, will use the women's tees, while the men will play from the Championship tees. Balukas picks her game against Mosconi; Tyus runs a less difficult obstacle course. The basketball stars, West and Logan, will play the simple playground game, H-O-R-S-E, but Karen has some trick shots in the bag to surprise Jerry. Each event will be staged under the direct supervision of the association and/or sanctioning body which normally governs the sport. This is to insure uniform interpretation of rules from an unbiased official organization which represents the sport full-time.

The first event, tennis, took place on Saturday, October 25. Borg, Goolagong, Nastase, and Wide played a mixed doubles exhibition match after the competition. The remaining 13 events will take place November 7-10. Precise time-periods will be announced at a later date.

Robert Wussler, Vice President, CBS Television Network Sports, stated that "CBS is very pleased to be a part of this unique sports concept. We believe that sports audiences are looking increasingly for something new and different, something that combines a lighter side of sports with some serious competition. We definitely feel that The Challenge of the Sexes will capture the imagination of American television audiences."

In addition to the fifteen events being taped at Mission Viejo, several additional winter-sports events will be taped for "The Challenge of the Sexes" at Keystone ski area in Colorado. Jay Michaels will serve as Executive Producer for Trans World International.

Watch for a round-up article on challenge to appear in next month's Mission Viejo Reporter.
A Nineteenth hole for Casta del Sol

The day of the trailer is over. Instead of a portable, temporary structure, golfers playing at Casta del Sol Country Club are now able to enjoy their new clubhouse and pro shop and the excellent La Reata Restaurant after a long day on the course. And like the golf course, proclaimed by the SCGA to be one of the finest in Southern California.

The club house has a beautiful pro shop with a full line of equipment, clothing and accessories, a cocktail lounge, and a large television set. And a fine dinner Monday Night Football. A special feature is the juice-box, which is filled each day with a variety of fresh, young and forties and fifties. Patrons can groove to such tunes as Woody Herman’s “Woodchoppers Ball” and Glenn Miller’s “String of Pearls.”

With fast food service at moderate prices, the La Reata Restaurant is an ideal place for family dining. It offers full breakfast service, all kinds of sandwiches for lunch, and a dinner menu that includes steaks, barbecued ribs, chicken, shrimp, and fresh fish. The restaurant is a good place to eat after golf or tennis, and it offers food to go and local delivery service.

Four special events marked the Sept. opening of the facilities. The first was the Mission Viejo Tennis Association September 16, followed by the Mission Viejo Company employees party on September 19. The Mission Viejo Company employees party was an enjoyable affair. It was styled in somewhat of an old-fashioned manner especially noticeable in the prices. Beer and soft drinks were 10 cents, and sandwiches were 30 cents. All present had a good time.

Another party was held September 23 for a famous Nasholdes writer and their families. This party also featured 10 cent beer and pop and 30 cent sandwiches. The final party in the series took place September 25 for the people in charge of planning and construction of the Club and Mission Viejo Company officials. It featured a nine-hole golf tournament and dinner and proved to be a fitting climax to the Casta del Sol opening activities.

Tom Mitchell, general manager of Casta del Sol and Mission Viejo Country Club golf courses, says “We decided to celebrate the opening of the new facilities with a series of events rather than just one. In this way we realize certain economies, plus extended the announcement period to provide more public awareness. Our primary purpose was simply to let everyone know that the new Casta del Sol Country Club facilities are open to the public.

Casta del Sol is proud of its excellent golf course, well-managed pro shop and club house and fine restaurant. And remember, everyone is welcome.

Three exciting new programs highlight the new school year for the Capistrano Unified School District.

The bi-lingual-bi-cultural program will be offered in areas where there are large numbers of non-English speaking students. A federally funded academic program similar to the “English as a second language” programs and should be a tremendous help to students who have a difficult time mastering English.

The new Crossroads program offers items and services to high school diplomas. 200 students will be able to earn credit through community service programs. A third major program will feature traditional teaching in “Fundamental Classes.”

Superintendent Jerome Thornley said that the district’s schools will continue to emphasize reading, math, science, and art, and arithmetic in all classes. Our goal is to teach basic communication skills, such as reading and arithmetic, responsibility, integrity, and honesty in our schools.

Superintendent Thornley added that “while in most areas of the country, the number of school children is declining, our district is growing at a rapid pace. This tremendous growth creates unique challenges and opportunities. We are constantly looking for ways to achieve greater cost effectiveness. We are looking hard at school sites and construction. We must retain quality and make wise expenditures. The best quality is the most important thing.”

The Capistrano School District now has over 14,000 students. The two high schools, Dana Hills and San Clemente, each have about 2000 students.

New schools include Castille and Mourot elementary schools, Niguel Junior High, and the R.H. Dana School for multiple handicapped students. Construction is about to begin on Shorecliffs Junior High and Capistrano Valley High School.

Thornley, in his first year as Capistrano Valley District Superintendent, is very impressed with the community interest in education. “We have a fine group of teachers, administrators, and other personnel, we have a good program and great kids,” he said. Dr. Welte expressed disappointment with the lack of attention paid to economics in the schools. “The average high school graduate knows little about economics,” he said. “Economics controls everything from our incomes, our expenditures. The best quality is the most important thing.”

Dr. Welte expressed disappointment with the lack of attention paid to economics in the schools. “The average high school graduate knows little about economics,” he said. “Economics controls everything from our incomes, our expenditures. The best quality is the most important thing.”

We must have more economics in our schools.

Much construction has been and is taking place in the Saddleback Valley School District. Mission Viejo High is being renovated out of necessity due to heavy usage from double motion picture and administrative student use. Serrano High has recently been completed. And the district has approved plans for a third high school to be located in southern Hills which should be ready in 1976.

The new additions are part of the plan needed to cope with the rising number of students in the district, which now has a total enrollment of 15,000. Mission Viejo High School now has about 5000 students and El Toro High School has 1900 students.

Despite the rising number of school children in the area, Dr. Welte has initiated programs which have saved the district $100,000. None of the cost cutting measures include reduction in teacher salaries and staffs and reassignments, reduction of office space, reduction in transportation costs, and other effective economic measures throughout the district.

Although cost cutting measures have proved necessary, the facilities and education of the students have not been taken lightly.

“Tis is more rhetoric to point out the schools are not only physically attractive, but are staffed with some of the most competent educators,” said Dr. Welte. “Every day we try to improve and upgrade everything we do. We believe in excellence.”

District Superintendents Welte, Thornley discuss goals, future plans for Saddleback and Capistrano districts.

From this point forward, both districts are working together to plan for the future. The goal is for both districts to work together to plan for the future.
Greg Mitchell — instant world champ

Seldom in the world of sports does anyone win a world championship in their first attempt at a particular event. Mission Viejo’s Greg Mitchell defied these almost insurmountable odds as he won the world tow-kiting championship held recently in Cypress Gardens, Florida. However, this was by no means Greg’s first award. Earlier in the year, he won the world hang gliding championship at Escape Country, plus received a rare Sports Illustrated award for outstanding achievement in his sport. And, as Greg says, “It’s the same as hanging, only with a different means of getting up.”

Greg has been hanging three years. His younger brother Mike, also a world class hang glider pilot, turned him on to the sport. When Greg first started, the kits were not as sophisticated, and he wasn’t all that enthralled about hanging after a minor mishap, he quit for six months. But when improved kits became available, he was bitten by the bug. The Mission Viejo’s Auxiliary of the Children’s Home Society will hold its seventh annual Christmas Boutique Saturday, November 22 from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at the Laff Intermediate School, 23131 Pareda.

The sale will feature Christmas decorations and ornaments, patchwork specialties, children’s toys and home accessories. A food section will be included.

Admission to the Christmas Boutique is a 50 cent donation. Tickets will be available at the door through any Auxiliary member. For information call the YMCA at 831-2243.

Airman Price graduates

Navy Aviation Structural Mechanic Airman Apprentice Larry T. Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Sykes of 24422 Ferrocarril, Mission Viejo, was graduated from the Basic Safety Equipment Course, Aviation Structural Mechanic School, at the Naval Air Technical Training Center in Millington, Tennessee.

The eight-week course included instruction in aircraft maintenance, use of aircraft ejection seats, air conditioning units, fire extinguishing systems and life raft release mechanisms.

Meet the Glad Hatters

Mission Viejo’s Casta del Sol community has many interesting residents, including Tony and Nell Hayes. For thirty years they designed and manufactured their own exclusive line of ladies hats which sold through some of the country’s major retail outlets including Bullock’s. Known as the “Glad Hatters of Inglewood,” the Hayes sold their Toni Hats to Bullocks the entire time they were in business. Other clients included Riker’s in Dayton, the White House in San Francisco, Carson Pirie Scott in Chicago, and B. Altman of New York. They had their own factory in Inglewood and at one time employed 30 people.

The Hayes couple, among the very first residents of Casta del Sol, came to California with strong backgrounds in millinery (ladies hats). They started business in the depression days of 1930, using a bedroom in their home as a designing room. “It was awfully tough in those days,” said Mr. Hayes. “You would always see men, even some who had held important positions, selling apples on the street. So you can imagine what we were up against.”

They then went into wholesale manufacturing and became known as Toni, with Nell designing and Tony managing. Soon they were selling their hats to big stores throughout the country. Bullock’s was their first major account. Also they are the proud owners of the only Bullock’s employees ever given to non-employees. These 25 and 30 year service pins were presented to them because of the Hayes’ long-term association with the firm.

Ultimately, the Toni Hat line became famous, and well advertised. The couple made personal appearances, had a billboard on Wilshire Boulevard, their own window at Bullock’s, and a wide array of media advertisements. The Hayes’ have kept a large scrapbook which contains some extremely interesting old newspaper promotions on hat styles.

Even though they were based near Hollywood, designing hats for exclusive clientele, they disliked designing hats for the motion picture industry. Tony Hayes says “That studio stuff was a pain. We let other people take care of most of the animators.”

One promotional idea they took part in was in conjunction with Studebaker. The automaker had a car called the Skyway. Nell designed a hat called the Skyway which featured a large bow and appeared in advertisements along with the car. They cultivated many friendships and met many interesting people through their business.

On one of the Hayes’ many train trips to New York for the purpose of buying merchandise, they met and befriended an Australian man. The man so enjoyed Tony and Nell that he went to the David Jones Company in Australia and told them “how nice the Hayes’ were. In the meantime, Mrs. Hayes became ill, and they then got out of the business. So in 1963, after thirty years in the business, Australian David Jones bought their whole inventory enabling the Hayes’ to successfully close out the business.

“Though they sometimes moved at a hectic pace, the Hayes’ look back upon their business with fond memories. “It was fast-paced, show-business type, seasonal business,” said Mrs. Hayes. “It was terrific because it was always changing. We had to have the hats to go with the coming fashions, which meant we had to always be on our toes for new ideas.”
Cordova Homes

One of the Country’s “Hottest” Residential Series

Mission Viejo’s new Cordova Homes have caused considerable stir in Orange County. In the week of August 11-17, 2,145 people visited the models of the new moderately priced homes. Within two weeks of the initial offering, all 130 homes in the first three neighborhoods were either sold or reserved.

The new homes have a number of features which appeal to young families, not the least of which is the very reasonable $34,495 to $44,495 price range.

Grant Sullivan, general sales manager for Mission Viejo Company, attends every neighborhood opening to extend the company’s greetings to the crowd of hopeful potential home buyers. In explaining the public’s quick acceptance of the moderately priced Cordova models Sullivan said, “I just can’t recall any previous Orange County new homes offering which has generated this much interest in such a short period of time.

A lot of couples initially came out because they found it hard to believe they could find a single family home in Mission Viejo at these prices.”

Nearly 300 people, most of them young couples with tiny babies in their arms waited breathlessly, hoping that their names would be among the first drawn in an August 9 lottery for 91 single family homes at the Cordova grand opening. As the winning names were announced during this one hour and 15 minute drawing, delighted couples shrieked with joy or cried and embraced each other openly.

The single story Cordova homes offer a choice of three bedrooms with one and one-half or two baths. Each home is equipped with a centrally located heating/plumbing core servicing kitchen, bathrooms and laundry areas.

Plans feature continuous vaulted cathedral ceilings in the living rooms, through to the country-style kitchen and family room shown above. The homes are delivered with fully insulated ceilings and exterior walls, and carpeting in the living rooms, hallways and master bedrooms. Other features include wired television and telephone outlets, easy-sliding windows and doors of anodized aluminum with screens and quality stripping, sliding doors with tempered safety glass, underground utilities, and elegant lighting fixtures.

Cordova kitchens are decorator designed for spaciousness, beauty and efficiency with high vaulted ceilings and not the least of which is the very reasonableness of the brand appliances, including gas ovens, fireplace, mirrored wardrobe doors, air conditioning, sliding glass doors, and in some plans, decks.

Phil Reilly, president of Mission Viejo Company credits part of the new Cordova success to the moderate prices of the series and part to the personality of Mission Viejo itself. “The so-called ‘demise’ of the single family market just isn’t fact,” Reilly said. “We have it here and growing, the Cordova homes and experience of homeowning feel and lifestyle not found in other communities.”

Moderate prices bring the young families into Mission Viejo,” said Reilly, “while larger, more expensive homes allow them the choice of moving up within the community where they have already developed friendships and set their own pace and lifestyle.”

The unique richness of the community’s character is a direct result of the master plan which has succeeded in drawing a balanced mix of ages and economic levels to the area. Though the community offers individual single family homes for around $35,000 (well below the $60,000 Orange County average), it also contains some of the county’s most expensive residences selling upwards to $133,000. Neighborhoods of these well kept homes cluster along the gently rolling hills which contain the Mission Viejo’s 11,000 planned acres.

in the eighth game, she began to be a bit too fancy, and Evert took advantage of her sloppiness to put Cynthia and the $10,000 first prize away. Doerner won $5,000 as runner-up.

Chris delivered a nice victory speech, praising the play of Doerner and the handling of the tournament. She also thanked Roger Clark of the Mission Viejo Company for providing her lodging during the tournament. She seemed a lot warmer and friendlier during her speech than during her unemotional overpowering victory in the finals.

The consolation match was perhaps more entertaining as the outcome was a bit more in doubt. Fromholtz, who had earlier upset fellow Aussie Lesley Hunt, kept considerable pressure on the powerful Navratilova, who had to overcome the searing heat as well as a determined opponent to pick up the $3,500 third place check. Fromholtz collected $3,000.

Fromholtz attempted to parlay one of the Virginia Slims Tour's finest backhands to defeat the Czech expatriate, but the rest of her strokes were too inconsistent to allow her to stay with Navratilova's awesome power. She did make a gallant comeback attempt to run the pro set score to 8-6.

It was a crowd-pleasing battle of left-handers with Diane trying to emulate Cynthia Doerner by attempting to tire Martina out. But Martina put her away with some big serves and volleys.

The doubles finals offered a mild surprise as Gail Glasser, a teaching pro who is not on the Virginia Slims tour, and Bettynn Stuart, a part time tour member, opposed the two stars, Evert and Navratilova. Though the unseeded team from Newport Beach lost to Chris and Martina, 6-2, 7-5, they showed some of the fine style of their earlier matches in making things fairly sticky at times for Evert and Navratilova. The winners picked up $3,500 for their efforts, while Gail and Bettynn won $1,500.

The day and the whole tournament were filled with fine tennis. The back-to-back-to-back spectators enjoyed the exciting play as they were able to see several girls that look like stars of the future. But they also received a true tennis education as they were able to see for themselves just how good Chris Evert and her two-handed backhand really are.

Mark Schubert, coach of Mission Viejo's champion Nadadores Swim Team, has been named Coach of the Year by the 1900-member American Swim Coaches Association (headquarters: Ft. Lauderdale, Florida), the largest swim coach group in the world. Schubert, age 26, is the youngest coach ever to receive the title.

The announcement was made by Robert Ousley, ASCA's executive director at the group's 7th Annual World Clinic/Convention at the Diplomat Hotel, Hollywood, Florida, on September 20 attended by over 600 ASCA coaches.

The Association selected Schubert after his Nadadores swim team captured five national AAU titles in only a 12 month period. The titles won were all in AAU National Competition and consisted of three women's and two overall team wins from August 1974 to August 1975.

Having coached the Mission Viejo team since June 1972, Schubert's development of individual champions has included world and national title holders Shirley Babashoff, Valerie Lee, Peggy Tsidal and Brian Goodell. Final ASCA judging for Coach of the Year honors is performed by the group's board of directors which consists of top national swim coaches. Ousley says, "Because the board members are among the best swim coaches in the country, they're in an excellent position to judge who's doing a real job and producing the excellent swimmers."

Schubert will be formally presented with the Coach of the Year award and trophy in Long Beach at the National AAU Championships in early April, 1976. ASCA's Ousley says, "We choose that appropriate that the award be presented to Mark Schubert in front of his fellow coaches and the many AAU swimmers who'll be at the Long Beach Meet."

Since 1961, previous ASCA coach of the year winners have included Dr. James Counsilman, University of Indiana; Peter Daland, USC; George Haines, UCLA; Don Gambril, University of Alabama; James Montrella, Lakewood, California, and 1st year's winner Dick Jocumsen, Long Beach, California.
Skateway opens this month

The latest addition of family recreation in the Mission Viejo community opens to the public in November. Mission Viejo Skateway is patterned after the "new concept" skating rink being built nationwide and will be offering a wide range of wholesome skate activities in colorful, well-supervised surroundings. Part of the new concept is the modern, well-built, colorfully-decorated facility, which will be run by a well-trained, community-oriented and involved staff. Good grooming and neatness are encouraged as all participants will be required to adhere to such dress codes and rules as the following: No blue denim jeans on anyone over ten years of age; cutoffs, sweat shirts and midrifts are not allowed; neat, casual dress and grooming is required; no one under 18 years of age allowed to skate in the facility; and propriety and dangerous play not allowed. Rules will be strictly enforced, but lots of fun will be offered through recreation skating parties and many lesson programs for the beginning skater to the top art and figure skating rater. There will be rewards and discounts for such things as good report cards, school patrols, and other designated community participation involve-

Mission Viejo Skateway is offering modern entertainment at old-fashioned prices such as $1.50 admission for a two and one-half hour matinee session, with evening two and one-half hour sessions being offered for $1.75 admission. Skate rentals will be 50¢ and a "time for everyone" will be scheduled.

For class information for both children and adults, party times, and our birthday party special, call or visit Manager Clay Woods, 581-4647, 25410 Marguerite Parkway, Mission Viejo.

Las Margaritas schedule trip

Las Margaritas has scheduled a trip to Montalvo’s for Thursday November 13. The bus will leave the Kiwanis Recreation Center at 9:30 a.m. A stop for lunch will be made en route. Cost is $2 for members and $4 for guests.

Gifts and goodies

Christmas is coming! What will you get for Aunt Mary or Cousin Ruth? The fifth annual Gifts and Goodies Boutique sponsored by the Mission Viejo Recreation Centers and the Las Margaritas Women’s Club will help solve this problem. Saturday, November 22 at the Montanoso Recreation Center, 23800 Mon-tanoso Drive, Mission Viejo, from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Hundreds of handicap items will be on sale, and what a great opportunity to pick the right Christmas gift for those special people on your list. A wide variety to choose from includes ceramics, macrame, jewelry, paintings, decorator items, wood planters, plants, quilts, shawls, dolls, toys, Christmas ornaments and stuffed animals, along with hundreds of other gifts.

Persons interested in securing space at the boutique may contact Montanoso at 837-4891. A limited number of spaces are available. For your convenience, a snack bar will be open during store hours.

Rollout for Levine

Larry Levine, Assistant Manager of Mis-sion Viejo Realty, has climbed to the top of the Mission Viejo Recreation Center Racquetball Association ladder. The Racquetball Association has 40 members. The association has ladders for A, B and C players. Levine, who first became interested in racquetball a year ago, worked his way to the top of the A ladder and up the B. He took over the top spot by defeating Bud Wenker. Levine, who has been playing racquetball for more than 15 years, switched to racquetball because of the faster pace and fewer bruises.

"I enjoy competition and winning," Levine said. "I set a goal for myself to become number one in the club, and I’m there. I like the exercise of racquetball. It keeps me in good shape and my weight down. And I like the speed."

"Racquetball requires skill, conditioning, and patience. You don’t have to hit the ball hard. Placement is the answer. You have to know when to hit long and when to hit short."

Babysitting co-op formed for members of rec center

An organizational meeting will be held November 4 at 9:30 a.m. at the Sierra Recreation Center to form a babysitting co-op for Mission Viejo Recreation Center members. Membership will be restricted to the first 25 families to register.

Children must be at least three years old to participate. The co-op will be staffed on a volunteer basis on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday mornings from 9:00 a.m. to 12 noon and will meet at the Sierra Recreation Center. For further information call B31-0500.

MVS Frock elect officers

Diana Harrelen has been elected president of the freshman class at Mission Viejo High School. Other officers are Vice-President Richard Vause, Secretary Lisa Alcock, Treasurer Lisa Andresick, and Representative Kathy Jacobsen. The vice-presidency race was decided by a run-off between Vause and Mike Kuri.

Honey Bunny

Mary McCaffrey, a Mission Viejo freshman, took fourth place with her Black Bunny in this year’s Pomona Fair. Sweet Ebony earned Mary a pink ribbon in the 18 years and under open division of the Junior Fair. Mary, who also received 4-H and Los Companeros, decided to enter the competition because a friend told her that “it was a good rabbit.” Though she really likes him, Mary says that Sweet Ebony is for sale, as she has a number of other rabbits she would like to raise for competition. Anyone interested in Sweet Ebony may reach Mary at 386-4957.

MISSION VIEJO DAYS 1975

The five day long Mission Viejo Days festival came to a rollicking conclusion on Sunday, September 21, at the Mission Viejo Golf Course. Games and events included contests for kids in age groups, log sawing, watermelon eating, horseshoes, foot racing, kiddy games, jams-jellies, and baked goods judging.

An old fashioned community get-together atmosphere illuminated the fun, which included the games and contests, ribbons, trophies, refreshments for adults, crafts, beer, pop, balloons, and great volumes of food and laughter.

September 17-20, the eliminations were held for such events as volleyball, softball, and bridge. Following is a list of the various Mission Viejo Days events and winners in each category.

Softball — Division "A": 1st, Dan Bemoll's team; 2nd, Bob Morrison's team. Division "B" (Family Division): 1st, Steve Gunther's team; 2nd, Dan Bremann's team.

This may be the most effective dieting technique ever devised! The scene shows one of the numerous watermelon eating contests in progress during Mission Viejo Days 1975.

Welcome Weber's Bread

Local shoppers may have noticed the new Weber's Bread distribution center, which has been operating on the corner of Alicia Parkway and Jeronimo. While the main purpose of the new center is as a distribution center for local markets, it also sells surplus bread at substantial savings to the local consumer.

"Weber's felt that the Saddleback Valley area deserved better service from wholesale routes," said manager Chuck Bedloe in explaining the appearance of the new center. "The new distribution center makes better service possible. It also cuts down the amount of spoiled and wasted products, and cuts our distribution costs."

According to Bedloe, "the bread is surplus from our delivery routes. It's not completely fresh, but it's a good product. We guarantee everything here."
