TUHSD Approves Four Controversial Textbooks

Four supplemental textbooks which have stirred much controversy in the Tustin Union High School District the past few weeks are scheduled for discussion at the May 25 meeting.

The books—"A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" by Betty Smith, "West Side Story" by Richard Rodgers and Robert Carl, "In Dubious Battle" by John Steinbeck, and "The Western Front" by A. B. Paton—were approved by a 5-3 vote, with board president Robert Rainbird voting against the decision.

The board also considered adding to the existing list of supplemental textbooks the request that a final draft of the proposed objectionable book was discussed.

During his speech, the supervisor pointed to the growth of Orange County and to the local area in particular.

He introduced Mrs. Charles King, original owner of the land, and three generations of the O'Ball family.

The Mission Viejo High School Dakish band provided the music at the dedication, while the cisterns were poured by the Mission Viejo Boy Scout troop.

The invocation and benediction were offered by the Rev. Richard Smith, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of the Master.

An offer was extended by the parish to erect another kind of fire station downtown, which may be utilized toward the expansion of the church and the community.

The new fire-fighting facility is 1,317 square feet in area and equipped to serve the Mission Viejo area and its 12,000 inhabitants.

A dormitory, notation rooms, study, dance, and a kitchen are all included for the comfort of the personnel.

Cooperative Vocational Education Program Explored by 3 Districts

We have done a good job in business education and also the business and clerical fields," said Benedict. "The schools also teach things like auto shop for boys, but that is not as popular as it was essentially an introductory course. But schools have been limited in the expansion of vocational programs by the state enabling legislation, however, this doesn't mean they can't expand. They can go into other areas or other districts on a cooperative basis to pool their resources, thereby permitting a broader offering of courses than one school can provide independently.

An example of vocational education programs is the experimental high school program in the Tustin Unified School District. The Tustin High School is a technical school, which means it is designed to give students vocational training.

Some school districts are also experimenting with programs in which students are trained in skills that can be applied in the business world. These programs are designed to give students a competitive edge in the job market.

Presidents to move Into Sanctuary Sunday

Members of the Saddleback Valley Master in Mission Viejo will attend services in their new sanctuary building during the 1970-71 school year.

Sixteen local students have been named to degree candidates at commencement exercises at California State College, Fullerton.

The last service of worship will be held at the First Christian Church in Mission Viejo, and it will be highlighted by a baptism. The launch will be held at the parking lot following the service. A family Night of Prayer will be held on the church campus later that night.

According to church officials, the new sanctuary is accented by the community and will be used for daily prayer, Bible study, and worship services. The new sanctuary will be dedicated in mid-June.

The new church will be constructed on a site purchased from the Mission Viejo Company. The church will be the site of the eventual Master in Mission Viejo, which will be completed in the fall of 1971.

Dick Hawley says...

Hi Folks. I hope that the long Memorial Day weekend left you safe and sound. It was seen as a long holiday with Memorial Day falling on a Sunday and the weatherman will present us with a lighter brighter sunny day and what appears to be a great outdoor weather

Here is your Sports Entertainment right in your own Home.

How about girls' minor league baseball? The Judy Green Giants, coached by Robert Loehrke, defeated an undefeated team from University High School, and he says that the girls really got a thrill out of it. On May 31st, they will be in the semi-finals, and they are still in the running for a spot in the 9-11 year-old girls. We wish the girls good luck in the Game School beginning at 8:00 p.m.

Well, it is still being with 18 days left on the school year. School is out for Memorial Day and then we have the last two weeks before the summer begins.

Looking forward to the upcoming summer season. Dick Hawley
Safari for Glass Set
By Area's Girl Scouts
By Nancy Tanzer
The Girl Scouts are going on safari this year, according to the newsletter distributed by the local chapter. The newsletter, titled "Saddles in the Savanna," reports that the girls will be exploring the world of safari fashion, including dresses, shoes, and accessories.

Nosy Neighbors
The Girl Scouts are also focusing on the issue of nosy neighbors, particularly in the context of their "Safari" theme. The newsletter mentions a case where a neighbor was putting out a large amount of trash, which the girls are encouraged to report to the authorities.

Fashion Show
As part of their "Safari" theme, the Girl Scouts are planning a fashion show. The show will feature outfits inspired by safari fashion, and the girls will be modeling the clothes they have collected.

Field Trip
The Girl Scouts are also planning a field trip to a local zoo to see the animals that inhabit the African savanna.

Conclusion
Overall, the newsletter highlights the Girl Scouts' dedication to exploring and learning about different cultures and situations, whether it be the fashion of safari or the behavior of nosy neighbors.
