For Miami University

LW Artist Creates Memorial

By Norma Goodpasture

Arthur Beaumont, with a unique talent honored by the Miami University of Ohio, was the artist of a recent major painting which is now on display at the university. The painting, known as "We Can Bring Harmony to the World," was commissioned by the university's Board of Trustees as a memorial to the late President Benjamin Harrison.

The painting was done in oil on canvas and measures 90 inches by 120 inches. It shows a group of people gathered around a tree, symbolizing the idea of unity and cooperation.

The painting was dedicated to the university community during a special ceremony held earlier this month.

 Beaumont, who is a member of the Michigan Art Institute, has received many awards for his work and has exhibited his paintings throughout the United States.

For Each Baby, Tree Is Planted

Roger's Mission Viejo Garden Club, in cooperation with the Mission Viejo Recreation Department, is sponsoring a "Birthday Tree" program for all newborn babies in the community. The program is being conducted in honor of the late President Benjamin Harrison, who was a resident of Mission Viejo.

Each participating family will receive a voucher for a tree, which they can plant in the tree farm of their choice, with the appropriate registration fee. The tree will be planted in a "Birthday Forest" created by the club.

The program is open to all newborn babies in the community and is being sponsored by the Mission Viejo Recreation Department.

Plain Talk about Beef Quality...

IN PLAIN TALK—what is “quality” in beef? At the dinner table, it means beef that is tender, juicy, and flavorful. And some meat of today's market is not only tender and juicy but is also flavorful.

Some meats are leaner today than in the past, but they are not necessarily less flavorful. The flavor of meat comes from the fat content and the amount of marbling (streaks of fat) to enhance the flavor. It most often comes from the fat content and the amount of marbling (streaks of fat) to enhance the flavor.

Beef of today is not only leaner but is also better. It must be fed baby foods (fruits, vegetables, and meats) which are high in vitamins and minerals. This means that the meat is more nutritious.

We are so sure of the quality of our meat that we guarantee it to be the best. Every cut of meat is carefully selected, inspected, and approved before it is sold. We want you to be satisfied with your purchase.

Dairy Product Use Down

By Dorothy Wenck

Dairy products are being used less in the home and are being replaced by other products, such as margarine. This is thought to be a healthy trend, according to Ruth's Hair Fashions.

According to statistics compiled by the California Dairymen's Association, the use of butter has decreased 38 percent since 1950. Ice milk has increased 80 percent, while Australian cheese has increased 28 percent. Butterfat, such as coconut oil or hardened vegetable oils, is thought to cause increased blood cholesterol levels.

The use of whole milk has dropped 16 percent, while low-fat milk has increased 40 percent.

In California it is 3.5 percent. One in ten homemakers in the survey correctly estimated the fat content of whole milk--probably because of the labeling. However, respondents who had a 3.947 grade point average, were selected as keynoters of the Millenium Club.

The California Dairymen's Association is trying to increase the consumption of milk and other dairy products. The public is not only known to be higher fat calories in dairy products, but they are not accurately estimated the fat content of these two milks.

In the survey, six out of ten respondents scored relatively well on low-fat milk-10 percent fat has 180 calories per cent fat has 135 calories, while 2 percent or greater! However, respondents of the rest overestimated the fat content of these two milks is relatively small. Whole milk with 8 percent fat has 300 calories per cent fat has 100 calories per cent fat has 135 calories per cap (147 milk solids are added). There is a mere 25 calories per cap difference between these two milks, which is negligible.整体的脂肪百分比

Three answers help explain why whole milk consumption is down 17 percent and low-fat milk consumption up 36 percent from 1950-1970. These answers are as follows:

- More than 90 percent of the fat is saturated fat, which is thought to cause increased blood cholesterol levels. Yet, if people know that they are eating less of this type of fat, which is thought to cause increased blood cholesterol levels, they will eat less of it. Yet, people know that they are eating less of this type of fat. This is why margarine is preferred over butter.

- The public is not only known to be higher fat calories in dairy products, but they are not accurately estimated the fat content of these two milks.

- These answers explain why whole milk consumption is down 17 percent and low-fat milk consumption up 36 percent from 1950-1970.
