Major Library Coming Here

A one-quarter-million-dollar main branch library and regional reference library will be built in Mission Viejo on a one-acre site given to the county by Mission Viejo Company, it was jointly announced last month by Philip J. Beilby, president of Mission Viejo Company, and County Supervisors William E. Herstein and Alton E. Allen.

To be built on Chisanta Drive, across from Mount of Olives Lutheran Church, the library is 1,000 ft. north of La Paz Road, the bordering between the 4th and 5th Supervisorial Districts and will be used by residents of both districts. The regional reference library will be the second in the county and will serve all of southeastern Orange County.

The 10,000 sq. ft. building will conform to the Spanish Early California style of public buildings in Mission Viejo, employing a tiled roof, according to the terms of the gift agreement. Beilby placed the value of the land at $50,000.

Herstein and Allen indicated that the board had selected the Huntington Beach architectural firm of Tom and Trucker, A.A. from a list submitted by the Department of Building Services.

Construction is to start in 1970 and is expected to take less than one year.

Cinco de Mayo Souvenir

A special four-page Cinco de Mayo souvenir supplement is included with this issue to help you relive this happy day in Mission Viejo history.

Backbone Traffic Artery Opens

Motors will be driving on the first link of Marguerite Parkway, Mission Viejo’s backbone traffic artery this month, according to Frank Fehse, vice president of engineering for Mission Viejo Company.

The one-mile north-south link connects La Paz Road, currently Mission Viejo’s main east-west road, with Oso Parkway, a future major east-west artery. La Paz is now Mission Viejo’s main access to the freeway and Oso Parkway is scheduled to connect with the freeway next year via a major interchange. Marguerite Parkway parallels the freeway, running approximately three-quarters of a mile to the east of it.

The first section of Marguerite Parkway will relieve the south La Paz Homes, Mission Ridge, and Monterey Homes neighborhoods of traffic bound for the Mission Viejo Golf Club and the Recreation Center.

Colliers coming off the freeway, for example, will take La Paz Road to Marguerite, go south on Marguerite to Oso and west on Oso to the golf course. Later they will be able to take the Oso off-ramp and drive directly to the course.

By early next year, said Fehse, motorists should be able to travel the entire Mission Viejo backbone traffic artery, from the north boundary of the Burroughs plant on the northern edge of the community to the south boundary of Saddleback College near the southern tip of the community. Two roads will make up the backbone: Jeronimo Parkway from the northern border to its intersection with Marguerite Parkway in the northern La Paz neighborhood, and Marguerite Parkway from Jeronimo to Avery Parkway (Rancho Mission Viejo Road).

Thus, motorists will be able to reach any section of Mission Viejo from any other section without using the freeway.

In late May, Jeronimo was extended from Cordilleras Drive to Montilla Lane, providing a second route to the Burroughs site and El Toro and completing another link in the backbone artery.

Mission Viejo Company Home Sales
Top 2,000 Mark, $55 Million

Mission Viejo Company's homes sales have passed the 2,000 mark, it was announced last month by John T. Martin, marketing vice president.
The 2,000 homes represent more than $35 million in sales, Martin said.

When the company began to sell homes in the spring of 1966, Mission Viejo was nothing but bare hills and we had just one group of model homes, La Paz Homes, he observed.

"Now, just three years later, we have a complete town with over 9,000 people and a wide range of educational, recreational, commercial, and soon industrial facilities. And, our homes sales have passed the 2,000 mark, it was announced last month by John T. Martin, marketing vice president.

Soil Preparation Is Necessary

A number of Mission Viejo homeowners have been exasperated by the need to prepare the soil before planting anything, including sod.

The salesmen, who represent an out-of-county firm, and said Radmacher, landscape architect for Mission Viejo Company.

"Mission Viejo has a wide variety of soils," said Radmacher, "but all of them — like most Southern California soils — need soil additives and nutrients before planting anything, including sod.

"Soil additives and nutrients are needed to prepare the soil before planting anything, including sod."

Most of these lawns will look reasonably well for the first 90 days, Radmacher noted. But after that, the need for watering, fertilizing, and mowing will increase. When you consider the long-term effects, the need for additives and nutrients is essential.

"This is really a false economy. When you consider the long-term effects, the need for additives and nutrients is essential.

Grouping some lawns into one category is to simplify the job of taking care of the lawns. By grouping similar soils together, we can develop a more uniform plan for soil preparation treatment.

The cowboys on horseback, from Rancho Mission Viejo, presented men with shovels in a symbolic ceremony.

Groundbreaking ceremonies, officially marking the beginning of construction of Saddleback College's 200-acre permanent campus, were held in May.

Rancho Mission Viejo cowboys on horseback opened the festivities by presenting gilded shovels to Dr. Fred Bremer, college president, and members of the Board of Trustees.

This fall, the school will begin its second year, this time with interim facilities totaling 73,699 sq. ft. The initial buildings, on the temporary campus, total 36,060 sq. ft. The permanent campus is east of San Diego Freeway.

Home Management Classes

Two classes in home management from Sunny Hills High School in Fullerton recently toured the four neighborhoods of homes in Mission Viejo as a class project.

During their half-day visit the girls talked out Eldorado Homes for a closer look.

"These are the homes that a young couple can afford and I felt they should examine them more closely," commented Mrs. Howard Chong, homemaking instructor.

The girls were all in favor of the community-centered philosophy, smog free air and the country atmosphere.

During their half-day tour they were given a house hunters evaluation guide, which they filled out and returned as a part of the project.

It’s been a busy year for the MYHS PTO. Funds derived by the PTO during the year will benefit the school through the purchase of audio-visual equipment, scholarships, books for future Blackhawks, and landscaping for a new senior class lawn. One of the great pleasures of the year was in presenting the first “professional” appearance of The Mission Viejo High School Tres Osos Guild of Childrens Hospital of Orange County.

Installation ceremonies were held during a May luncheon at the Mission Viejo Inn. Attending were Misses Mary Martin, first vice president; Jack Dershimer, second vice president, Hersh Hoogepanger, recording secretary, Tom Reeder, corresponding secretary; and Rob Doss, treasurer. Working with them will be Misses Thomas Miller, publicity and historian; John Parker, newsletter; Robert Martin, fashion show; John Sands, Christmas cards; John Shannon, parliamentarian; Michael Collins, ways and means, and project coordinator.

A handful of women began meeting in Mission Viejo last January to organize the guild. Since then membership has blossomed to 35 active members (paying $20 dues, participating in fund-raising events and attending all meetings) and 15 associates (paying $10 dues, working with the guild, not required to attend meetings and receiving no vote). “During the first year, one of our main goals will be to boost our active membership to 35,” said Mrs. Yeiser. “We are also going to try to create public awareness of CHOC and its projects.”

The new group chose its name, which means Three Bears, to conform to the storybook quality of other guild names and to capture the Spanish atmosphere of the community, explained Mrs. Yeiser.

Each year the more than 1,500 guild members, representing every city in Orange County, spend hundreds of hours in fundraising events to benefit outpatient clinics at the hospital.

The hospital maintains an active outpatient department for children whose parents cannot meet full costs.

Without unforeseen delays, Old MacDonald’s Farm is sched uled to open in Mission Viejo on Father’s Day, June 15.

“The record rain set back our grading and building schedule but now we are going full speed ahead,” said Fulton Shaw, originator and pro pri etor of the farm. New buildings under con struction at the farm include a party barn, restaurant, snack bar and country store.

Mission Viejo Company carefully pre-planned Crown Valley Parkway to preserve the rural atmosphere of the little wooded valley adjoining the Crown Valley Parkway north on-ramp to the San Diego Freeway. An old ranch house on the site has been preserved and all the trees have been saved.

“The setting is perfect,” said Shaw, pointing to a stately eucalyptus. “A tree surgeon was here all last week and has checked out all the trees, making sure they are safe for children. Under this tree, we will prepare an area for out door parties.

"YES" Needs Student Jobs

YES needs your help. Operating since last June, Mission Viejo’s Youth Em- ployment Service (YES) has placed more than 200 stu- dents in part time and full time positions.

“We have many eager stu- dents willing to do almost any kind of work—lawn care, babysitting, painting and house cleaning,” said Mrs. Ruth Dick, chairman of the program, which is sponsored by the Rancho Viejo Women’s Club. “We also have some very reliable and dependable 17 and 18 year-olds for whom we would like to find com- mercial work.”

The project got underway last year when one of the high school counselors sug- gested that an organization help the school answer ques- tions on people who call in and want students to work. “I feel this is one of the best ways to combat juvenile delinquency, as well as teach students how to interview for jobs,” Mrs. Dicks said. Located in an office at MV HS, the service has a bulletin board on which current job offers and salaries are posted. Interested students read the board on a daily basis.

Persons seeking young peo- ple for employment may call 630-2550 from 2 to 4 p.m.

Marusich Lends 'Cool' To Big Job

Bob Marusich is a big man for a big job. A 6-foot-2, 220-pounder, he is president of the Mission Viejo Homeowners' Association.

As one of the organization's steering committee members, he has seen the group grow and expand with Mission Viejo. He helped to draft the by-laws and was on the association's educational committee in the beginning.

The purpose of the association is to act as a sounding board for residents when minority problems arise, according to Marusich.

We have supported the Tuscan Unified High School District tax override and have favored the agricultural preserve act.

Also, during the recent Cinco de Mayo Fiesta, we planned and organized the queen contest, a first. Currently, our traffic safety committee is educating residents on speed limits and regulations in residential areas.

Civil Minded

"I became interested in the association because I was curious to find out about the mechanics of governmental bodies like schools boards. Anyone who is civic minded can join the association. It is a good way to know where your taxes are going and what is happening in the community."

According to a close business associate, Marusich is an analytical person who keeps his "cool" in difficult situations. He knows how to delegate authority and accomplish an organization's goals by appointing competent committee heads who take an active interest in projects. He always encourages participation in meetings and uses direct but informal approaches. He gives his committee heads complete autonomy and solicits viewpoints from the membership on all projects tackled by the group.

Corporate Background

Marusich's corporate background has been helpful in his association work. He has been with Autometrics since 1961. As supervisor of Mission Viejo Navigation Systems Engineering, he has had an opportunity to travel abroad. He recently supervised an engineering team on board the battleship New Jersey, from Hawaii to the Philippines, his team worked on navigation computer problems.

He has also spent some time on Polaris submarines in Spain, solving navigational system problems. And he has worked on airborne electronics and steering problems in South Vietnamese waters.

Both Bob and his wife, Katherine, are natives of California. In fact, he is a second generation resident. Bob graduated from high school in the San Pedro area and has a B.S. degree from U.C. Berkeley.

The Marusichs have lived in Mission Viejo since October, 1966, and have four children: Lisa, 8; Matthew, 6; Andrew, 5; and Gregory, 3.

"We moved in when Mission Viejo was young. We enjoyed being a part of the start of something that has exceeded our expectations," he said.

"Most of all, we like the country-type atmosphere, roller skating and the closeness of the beach."

Mission Viejo President Addresses Convention on New Towns, Centers

"The complete product and establishment of an identity are the most important factors in developing a new town," said Reilly, president of Mission Viejo Company, told a group of 150 building institution officials, new town builders, and educators at a spring conference on new towns, held in Chicago in April.

"The first important thing is a thorough understanding of - and design of - a product that fits into the local government's goals by appointing competent committee heads who take an active interest in projects. He always encourages participation in meetings and uses direct but informal approaches. He gives his committee heads complete autonomy and solicits viewpoints from the membership on all projects tackled by the group."
Johnstone Officiates During Little League Ceremonies

California Angel center fielder Jay Johnstone officiated at the opening day ceremonies for the Mission Viejo Little League in May. Players, managers, coaches, assistants and sponsors were introduced during the festivities at O'Neill Elementary School playground.

Minor league play during the first week of the Little League season featured some of the most exciting action. The Twins whipped the Yankees 9-7 as Ricky Krueger — with relief help from Brian Weaver — pitched the Twins to the season’s first win. Larry Daniels of the Twins hit the year’s first home run.

Mike Gray of Mission Viejo High School led a contingent of three Diablos on the official All-Crestview League baseball team selected by the Orange County Sportswriters Assn.

Gray, with a .356 league batting average, was selected at catcher while mates Steve Hazan and Tom Gardner made the first team at first base and outfield.

Four Diablos were also named to another All-Crestview League team, which was picked by the coaches. Included were: Tom Berce, Hazan, Gray, and Gardner.

Coach Harry Hilkie’s Diablos are 13-8 overall for the season and 8-5 in league action.

We finished third in league play this year and next year we will have to be considered one of the favorites, along with El Modena and Footbill. All our starters will be returning with the exception of senior Tom Gardner,” said Hilkie.

During final league action, the horsehiders blanked Laguna Beach 10-0. Hazan pitched a three-hit shut out and knocked in a run. Gray hit a double and Mark Bevington also knocked in a home run. Gray hit a grand slam homer to lead the Diablos to an easy 6-2 win.

June Date Set For First Executive Tournament

The first annual Executive Golf Tournament for the benefit of the Multiple Sclerosis Society will be staged June 37 at Mission Viejo Golf Club, it was announced last month by Irving Watcher, tourney chairman.

Watcher said that several hundred invitations are being mailed to top executives in major firms throughout the Southland. Entries will be limited to 100 players having Southern California Golf Association handicaps.

“This will be a shot gun event, beginning with lunch,” said Watcher. “Following 18 holes of golf, there will be a golf clinic featuring Jack Fleck, former National Open champion and now director of golf at Mission Viejo. The day will wind up with a happy hour and a great awards dinner with unusual and exquisitely prepared foods.”

The $100 entry fee includes everything connected with the tournament. Executives who have SCCA handicaps and wish to enter may contact Watcher at (714) 541-4899.

Watcher indicated he envisions this event as the forerunner of an annual national series of Executives Tournaments with all proceeds going to the National Multiple Sclerosis Fund.

Rec Center NEWS

by Jerry Curran

An exciting summer program for "kids of all ages" has been planned by our Rec Center staff.

Special summer events include cinema at the Moon contest, a penny carnival, a day camp, crafts classes, big toe contest, and other events.

The week of June 17-22 will be themed "Hurray! School Is Out" and will be highlighted by a giant water fight. Grades six and up will participate on June 19 at 1:30 p.m. in the parking lot and grades five and under on June 20 at 1:30 p.m. at the same place. Each participant must bring an empty half-gallon milk carton and come prepared to get wet.

Also in June, the Second Annual Ballons to the Moon contest will be held on the 30th. Postcards will be attached to helium-filled balloons. The child whose balloon travels the farthest will receive a $25 savings bond. The person who returns the card will also win a prize.

Skills in agility and "fall-safe" techniques for youth, eight years and older, will be offered in a series of tumbling classes throughout the summer. The first five-week program, will start June 7 and last until July 2. Taught by Sue Bognin. Fees for members, $5 and non-members, $15.

EXECUTIVE TOURNEY

Entry deadline is June 27 for the annual Executive Tourney.

MARIO "Mr. Ball" MARINELLI, a 2handicap and recent Vicjon Inn AAAAA winner, and JIM "The Iron Man" BARNETT, a 1handicap and recent Vicjon Inn AAA winner, will anchor the 1969 field of 48 golfers.

The field is composed of 41 club members and 7 invitees. The golfers are divided into two flights of 24 each.

The first six-team flight will play 12 holes in 1965 and two 3ball matches will be played on the remainder of the course.

The second flight will play 12 holes in 1965 and one 3ball match will be played on the remainder of the course.

The Super Fifty Match Play will be played on Monday, June 29, at the Rec Center. Despite the 2handicap difference, Marinelli and Barnett are expected to do well in the tourney, which is sponsored by the Vicjon Inn Men's Club.

The program consists of six one-half hour lessons on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11:30 a.m. to noon and 12:30 to 1 p.m. The object of the program is to introduce little ones to water enjoyment and safety.

KEEPING UP WITH MISSION VIEJO — A community growing as fast as Mission Viejo requires a new map about every month. Drawn just for this issue, this map shows — for the first time — almost the entire western end of the community, including the Mission Viejo Industrial Park with the Burroughs plant site.
